

WILL TAKE A REST AFTER THE FIGHT

MAJOR MCKINLEY WORN OUT BY THE CAMPAIGN.

Must Have Time to Recover Before Preparing to Assume His Office—Mr. Bryan Issues An Address to Bimetallists—Latest Election News From Various States.

Canton, O., Nov. 7.—Maj. McKinley's afternoon outing Friday included a drive to West Lawn cemetery. He had with him six beautiful bunches of flowers. He left the carriage and placed one each upon the graves of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Saxton, who were Mrs. McKinley's father and mother. A short drive brought him to the McKinley lot. Here he placed like tokens in memory of his two daughters, Katie and Ida, who passed away early in life, a score of years ago, and a similar remembrance upon the graves of his deceased sister, Anna, and his late brother, James McKinley. Returning home he found a special carload party from Cincinnati. They came to extend a personal invitation to attend the Commercial club dinner Nov. 10. Maj. McKinley explained to them his plans, which were to take a rest quietly at Cleveland next week, and then return to Canton, where he would probably remain arranging for the duties before him, being forced to decline this year, but accepting an invitation for the next annual dinner. He likewise extended regrets to invitations from Chicago and Columbus and various other points, and wrote Mayor Strong of New York his thanks and inability to be present at the dinner of the New England society on Dec. 22. He spent the evening in his library with a few friends.

BRYAN'S AU REVOIR.

He Addresses the Bimetallists of the United States.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—Mr. Bryan has given an address to the bimetallists of the United States. In part it is as follows:

"Conscious that millions of loyal hearts are saddened by temporary defeat, I beg to offer a word of hope and encouragement. The friends of bimetallism have not been vanquished; they have simply been overcome. They believe that the gold standard is a conspiracy of the money changers against the welfare of the human race and until convinced of their error they will continue the warfare against it.

"The contest has been waged this year under great embarrassments and against great odds. For the first time during this generation public attention has been centered upon the money question as the paramount issue, and this has been done in spite of all attempts upon the part of our opponents to prevent it. The loss of a few states, and that, too, by a very small plurality, has defeated bimetallism for the present, but bimetallism emerges from the contest stronger than it was four months ago.

"I desire to commend the work of the three national committees which have joined in the management of this campaign. Co-operation between the members of distinct political organizations is always difficult, but it has been less so this year than usual. Interest in a common cause of great importance has reduced friction to a minimum.

"No personal or political friend need grieve because of my defeat. My ambition has been to secure immediate legislation rather than to enjoy the honors of office, therefore, defeat brings to me no feeling of personal loss.

"In the face of an enemy rejoicing in its victory, let the roll be called for the engagement and let us urge all friends of bimetallism to renew their allegiance to the cause. If we are right, as I believe we are, we shall yet triumph. Until convinced of his error, let each advocate of bimetallism continue the work. Let all silver clubs retain their organization, hold regular meetings, and circulate literature. Our opponents have succeeded in this campaign and must now put their theories to the test. Every step taken by them should be publicly considered by the silver clubs. Our cause has prospered most where the money question has been longest discussed among the people. During the next four years it will be studied all over this nation, even more than it has been studied in the past.

"The year of 1900 is not far away. Before that year arrives international bimetallism will cease to deceive; before that year arrives those who have called themselves gold-standard democrats will become bimetallists and be with us, or they will become republicans and be open enemies. Before that year arrives trusts will have convinced still more people that a trust is a menace to private welfare and to public safety; before that year arrives the evils of a gold standard will be even more evident than they are now, and the people, then ready to demand an American financial policy for the American people, will join us in the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

INDIANA'S FIGURES UNCHANGED.

Official Count Shows the Estimates Were Nearly Correct.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—The official returns from the counties, which are now coming in rapidly, do not change the unofficial figures materially. 20,000. In some counties the unofficial McKinley's plurality will stand near plurality has been increased by the official count, while in others it has been decreased. The state ticket in many counties has run even with the electoral ticket, but the official count will probably show that it is something like 3,000 behind the electoral ticket. Mount, rep., for governor, has led the state ticket everywhere.

The official returns show that the democrats have elected four out of thirteen members of congress. The official count reduces the number of republicans in the senate to 33, and the number of republicans in the house to 52, and makes the general assembly twenty republican on joint ballot.

South Dakota Undecided.

Yankton, S. D., Nov. 7.—South Dakota's vote on presidential electors is tied, and an official count will be required to determine the result. Corrections and changes in three precincts not yet heard from may give the electors to either Bryan or McKinley. The republican candidates for congressmen and governor ran ahead of the electors by several hundred votes, so far as heard from, and they may have safe majorities.

Returns from California.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all but 111 precincts in California give McKinley a plurality of 4,548. The missing precincts in 1892 gave Harrison 1,501, Cleveland, 1,778, Weaver, 236. On joint ballot in the legislature the republicans will have a majority of twenty-six, insuring a republican senator to succeed Perkins, the latter being a candidate for re-election.

Democrats Claim Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 7.—The Wyoming democratic state committee compiles returns from the state showing: Bryan, 9,339, McKinley, 9,130. For congress, Mondell, rep., 9,000; Osborne, dem., 9,310. It is claimed the remaining precincts, numbering sixty-one, will give the democratic electors and congressman 250 plurality.

Missouri Heavily Democratic.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—There are yet ten counties in Missouri to hear from. But the indications are that Bryan will have from 60,000 to 65,000 plurality, and Stevens, dem., for governor, from 45,000 to 50,000. It is not thought the complete returns will be in before next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Lind Accepts His Defeat.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—John Lind, fusion candidate for governor, has issued a statement in which he placed McKinley's majority in Minnesota at a little over 50,000, and admitted that Clough, republican, was elected governor by from 1,500 to 2,000.

Bryan Gets 100,000 in Texas.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 7.—With the exception of R. B. Lawley, in the Tenth district, this state will send a solidly democratic delegation to the next congress. Bryan's majority in the state is 100,000, while the state ticket will go through by 60,000.

Latest from Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 7.—Seventy-seven out of ninety-six counties heard from officially and semi-officially give Bryan 15,165 over McKinley. The remaining counties will probably increase the figures to 20,000.

Wyoming Is Very Close.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 7.—Wyoming returns give Bryan 9,316; McKinley, 9,205; Osborne, democrat for congress, 9,346; Mondell, republican, 9,106. Fifty-seven precincts to hear from are estimated republican by 200.

South Dakota Is for Gold.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—A special to the Journal from Yankton, S. D., says the state goes republican by a majority of from 300 to 400. Final returns from the few remaining precincts will not change the figures.

Total Vote in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—Complete returns in the state give the following results: Bryan, 79,714; McKinley, 72,250. In 1894—Republicans, 65,988; fusion of populists and democrats, 67,819.

No Doubt in Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from every county in Oregon give McKinley 46,792; Bryan, 44,262. McKinley's majority, 2,530. Official returns may change these figures slightly.

The Ohio Vote.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—Corrected returns in Ohio place McKinley's plurality at 52,229. No figures have been made in the total vote, but it will be over 900,000.

East of Nitroglycerin Explosions.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 7.—A terrific explosion at a point up the river shook buildings along the water front in this city at 10:30 o'clock Friday night. The first definite news of the accident was brought to the city by the Pittsburgh and Wheeling packet Bedford. Her officers reported that a small craft supposed to be carrying nitroglycerine exploded near Georgetown, four miles west of here. The Bedford was lifted out of the water by the force of the explosion. Georgetown could not be reached to learn the extent of the damage.

THE TRADE REVIEW BY DUN & COMPANY

WEEKLY REPORT PROMISES BETTER TIMES.

Stiffening in Prices Is the Immediate Result of the Uncertainty Ended By the Election—Failures Decrease in Number When Compared With One Year Ago.

New York, Nov. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"A great revolution has been effected this week in the conditions which control business. It was not strictly logical that wheat advanced 5 cents, reaching 82 cents for November and 85 cents for December, and heavy realizing of profits showed perception of the fact. Western receipts were only 6,087,159 bushels, against 8,019,910 last year, and Atlantic exports, flour included, were only 1,588,358, against 1,790,833 last year. A growing disposition appears among farmers to hold wheat for better prices than are now realized, although at present any advance checks buying for export.

"Speculation in cotton was also excited on the theory that mills would now start up, as many have done, and would make a large demand for goods. But the advance was met by realizing sales and a slight reaction. It will be all the better for business if bright hopes do not hoist prices too fast.

"The election immediately stiffened prices of pig iron, which reached $12 at Pittsburgh for Bessemer, and the certainty that many large orders for buildings and bridges and other finished forms would now become operative justifies some advance. The billet pool, which is still openly undersold at Pittsburgh, and has caused no end of disturbance in business by favoring one class of producers to the detriment of another, has been in session here, and is said to have changed its basis of allotment so as to secure fairer results.

"Practically no change has appeared in woollens, but the reported purchase of wool, including one of 11,000,000 pounds of territory, said to have been made by a syndicate, amounted to 18,561,000 pounds, against 5,621,350 last year, and 8,215,000 in 1892. The average of prices rose about half a cent in October, and since Sept. 1 104 quotations by Coates Bros. have risen from 12.16 to 12.92 cents, or 6.3 per cent.

"Failures for the week have been 230 in the United States, against 280 last year, and 52 in Canada, against 49 last year."

Mrs. Hobart Chosen President.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 7.—The first day's session of the Young Women's Christian association of the state was largely attended Friday. Mrs. H. M. Hobart, Evanston, was elected president, and other officers were chosen. The report of the executive committee showed the society to be in debt $611, besides an unpaid pledge of $400. No new associations have been formed, but the thirty-four associations already organized in the state have been greatly strengthened and the organizations in Chicago are in a particularly encouraging condition. The membership of the five city associations is 1,946.

Will Call an Extra Session.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 7.—Governor Drake has resumed his labors at his desk after a month's absence in the campaign. He immediately announced that he would call an extra session of the legislature for Tuesday, Jan. 19, to consider the revision of the code. He will include in the call a request to the legislature to make provisions for the $150,000 loss which the state suffered in the burning of the home for feeble-minded children at Glenwood two months ago, there being no fund to provide for it.

Montana Mining Company Assigns.

Missoula, Mont., Nov. 7.—The Golden Scepter Mining Company at Quigley has assigned with debts of $285,000. Assets are estimated at $500,000, consisting of the company's mines and its vast incomplete mills, electric power, railroad, etc. The company has spent this year nearly $400,000 in opening its mines and building its works, and the failure is alleged to be on account of inability to get enough money to complete them.

Mob Stops the Canvass.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—At midnight Thursday an angry mob took possession of the court house, where the canvass board of election returns of Wilmington and Newcastle county was in session. The state militia was ordered in arms. For four hours the soldiers stood on guard at the armory, awaiting instructions. At daylight the excitement subsided, and the count proceeded.

THIRTEEN DROWNED AT ST. JOHN'S N. F.

SCHOONER GOES TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

Twenty-Three Persons Thrown Into The Water By The Accident—Those Who Escaped Kept Afloat By The Aid of Planks—Collision Was the Cause.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 7.—The schooner Maggie, Captain William Blundon, while entering this harbor Friday night, with twenty-three persons aboard, was struck by the steamer Tiber, Captain John Delisle which was steaming outward at full speed. The schooner sank from the force of the collision, carrying down with it thirteen persons. Four of these were women, one the wife of the captain and another his sister. A young married couple named Power and a brother and sister of the name of Holloway are of those drowned. The passengers were coming to St. John's to procure their supplies for the winter before navigation closed. Those who escaped were kept afloat by the aid of planks from the schooner's decks, and were picked up by the steamer's boat and brought back to the port by the pilot boat which had the Tiber in tow. The Tiber continued on her voyage.

Floods in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Reports received from various sections of eastern Pennsylvania indicate that considerable damage has been done by the heavy rains of Wednesday and Thursday of this week. This is especially true in regard to the mining regions, where many mines have been flooded and a number of collieries forced to suspend.

Carlisle May Be Senator.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.—The Times says: "John G. Carlisle will be J. C. S. Blackburn's successor as United States senator from Kentucky if he will accept. By Tuesday's election the republican vote in the legislature became 70 on joint ballot, which is sufficient to elect, but not a quorum. Thus the gold-standard democrats are masters of the situation."

Elliott Is Champion Wing-Shot.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—J. E. Reilly and J. R. Elliott met Friday in a 100-bird shoot for the American wing-shot championship and the Kansas City Star cup, emblematic of that honor. Reilly killed twenty-seven straight, but after that fell down completely, and Elliott won the match by a score of 92 to 81.

Graphic's Statement Denied.

London, Nov. 7.—The officials of the foreign office deny that there is any truth in the report given currency in the Daily Graphic that the marquis of Salisbury has decided to evacuate the island of Cyprus and that this decision has cleared the way for common action upon the part of the powers in Turkey.

Foreign Mission for Buckner.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 7.—It is stated on the authority of republican leaders in this state that General Simon Bolivar Buckner, the gold democratic nominee for vice president, will be strongly recommended to President-elect McKinley for one of the foreign missions, probably to Italy.

ENTIRE FAMILY POISONED.

Mrs. Hardin is very low, and Mrs. White and her two children were found to be dangerously ill.

AS TO AMERICAN MONEY.

Canadian Banking Institutions Unable to Agree Upon a Policy.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Until the Canadian banks raised the discount on American money it had been accepted at almost par value, and now financial men differ as to what policy should be adopted in regard to American money. While none of them handle American coin they disagree as to what policy is advisable in the case of United States notes. The Standard bank, which was one of the first institutions to raise the discount rate, refuses to lower it. How many banks will follow this example it is impossible to say, but it is fairly certain that the most important banking institutions will continue to accept American money as they did before the free silver agitation.

House and Senate.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Sufficient returns have been received by Chairman Babcock of the congressional committee to enable him to figure on 208 republicans, 100 democrats, and 20 populists in the house of representatives. This leaves three doubtful districts to hear from. The composition of the senate for the next congress is considered a little doubtful, with the chances favoring a slight majority for free silver on an unincumbered vote. Of the thirty elected or to be elected who will take their seats next March, fifteen will be for free silver and fifteen against. This would leave the division of the whole senate forty-six silver men and forty-three sound-money men, the latter number likely to be increased by the election in Delaware to forty-four.

Tells of the Output of Tin.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Special Treasury Agent Ayer has submitted to the secretary of the treasury his report covering the domestic output of tin and terne plate for the fiscal year. From the statistics presented it appears that the production was 307,228,621 pounds, an increase over the year 1895 of over 58 per cent. Of last year's production 303,002,098 pounds, or more than 98 1/2 per cent, were made from sheets rolled in the United States, as compared with 83 per cent for 1895.

Appointments for McKinley.

Temporary Measure Talked Of.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The first purpose of a republican house and senate will doubtless be to provide some means of meeting the expenses of the government. Senator Quay expressed the opinion that an attempt would be made at the approaching session to pass the Dingley relief bill, which failed last session. It is felt, then, an extra session of the next congress will be necessary.

PLURALITY IN THE STATE STILL GROWS.

These Figures Are Substantially Correct, and But Small Change, If Any, Will Be Developed By the Official Count—The Figures As They Now Stand.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—Official and corrected returns from several Wisconsin counties yesterday place McKinley's plurality in this state at 100,296, and Scofield's plurality at 93,778. The vote now stands, subject to possible slight changes:

McKinley	253,272
Bryan	192,973
McKinley's plurality	100,296
Scofield	93,778
Silverthorn	165,691

Scofield's plurality 92,648

One principal change is made in Douglas county, where by an error in one figure, made in telegraphing, the republican ticket was credited with 1,000 less votes than it received. McKinley's plurality there is 1,815. The vote of the state by congressional districts, as now reported is as follows:

	McKinley	Bryan	Scofield	Silverthorn
First	18,231	15,781	27,533	10,691
Second	23,705	17,390	23,279	18,237
Third	26,043	15,900	25,762	16,181

Fifth	26,673	16,158	25,992	16,687
Sixth	25,533	18,656	25,100	18,382
Seventh	24,075	11,436	26,744	11,490
Eighth	26,519	16,204	25,288	15,930
Ninth	29,729	16,79	29,540	17,315
Tenth	27,033	13,572	26,459	13,807
Total	253,272	192,973	253,240	165,691

The Palmer vote, as far as reported, runs somewhat behind the prohibition vote. In no county reported does it reach 500, and in most it is less than 100. The gold democrats voted for McKinley. The Sentinel has returns on this vote from only thirty-one counties which give an aggregate vote for Palmer of 2,321 and an aggregate vote for levering, pro., of 2,867, indicating a total for the entire state of about 5,000 for the national democratic ticket and 6,000 or 7,000 for the prohibition ticket."

Superintendent Mayne stated that the Rock County Teachers' association would hold their annual meeting in this city on Saturday, December 5.

Many Plans Made.

It is intended to make this one of the largest and best meetings of the association's ever held in this city.

The program will be classified into sections with special references to primary teachers, intermediate teachers, grammar teachers and high school teachers. The section devoted to high school teachers will also be divided into sections regarding mathematics, civics, literature and languages. A specialist from the State University is expected to conduct the sessions. There will also be a school board session from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., at which one or more members of each school board in the county will be present and subjects of interest to school boards will be discussed. The Janesville board of education are expected to be the hosts on this occasion and see that the visitors are given a good time. Superintendent Ross has requested Commissioner Clemons to preside on the occasion.

Superintendent Mayne stated that election day was a legal holiday, but the schools did not close as they preferred to take the Friday after Thanksgiving instead, and on motion of Commissioner Hayner the superintendent was directed to close them from Wednesday until Monday.

On Commissioner Barpee's motion, a map of the city and a new directory was ordered purchased.

Commissioner Clemons' motion, that the board accept the invitation to attend the meeting of the county teachers' association, was adopted, and Commissioner Barpee introduced the following resolution:

Do Not Want Pupils To Vote.

WHEREAS, A voting contest took place on the presidential elections among the pupils in the public schools during school hours, on election day; and

WHEREAS, Contests of a political nature tend to excite the partisan feelings of the pupils therein; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this board of education that contests of a political nature should not be permitted in the public schools, nor partisan instruction of any kind allowed.

Supt. Mayne stated the vote was unauthorized by him and that he knew nothing about it until after it was taken. One teacher had asked him regarding it and he told her not to allow the vote to be taken. He stated further that some one unknown to him had telephoned to the principals in charge of the several schools asking them to take the vote and they supposing it was their duty did it.

The matter of providing a building for school children in the Spring Brook addition was brought up and on motion of Com. Barpee it was laid over until the next meeting of the board.

Janesville People Plan to Avoid Buying Coal This Winter.

Because coal is selling at $7.25 a ton with a good promise of going higher, many families in this city have discarded their coal stoves and will burn wood. A local hardware dealer reports an unusually brisk sale of wood stoves and attributes it entirely to the high price of coal. This year wood is as cheap as usual.

LEAF MEN ARE GLAD

THAT MCKINLEY WON

BY THEM MUCH EFFECTIVE WORK WAS DONE.

Wanted All Money As Good As Gold; By the Returns the Story Is Told; So Much More Leaf Will Be Sold, and Revival Has Begun.

The greatest political event since the war is now a matter of history, and the tobacco men are happy almost to a man, says the Janesville Leaf. It is thought that there will be a gradual and general improvement in trade conditions throughout the entire land. A more hopeful feeling exists and preparations are being made for more business in the near future. A dispatch was received by a prominent local leaf man ordering 100 cases of old leaf, which had been bought subject to the election of McKinley, and there are other indications of the salutary effect of the election of the man from Canton. Among the sales reported are 134 cases of old leaf by J. L. M. F. Greene, 66 cases of '95 and 40 cases of '94 and '93 sold by A. N. Jones. The keen interest in politics has generally overshadowed business.

Tobacco Men Did Much Work.

It was a desperate and hard fought battle in all its details and sound money won a decisive victory, the "free coinage" forces being entirely routed, the Leaf says editorially. Great victories were won in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other large cities and we believe results in these places is largely due to the earnest and united efforts of the tobacco men of these cities. There are good reasons to believe that business will gradually improve, and after the bitterness incidental to the strife has passed away, all will be well and serene. A gradual improvement in more desirable and permanent than a boom. Booms are never indicative of a healthy and lasting growth.

Minor Leaf Notes.

Several local dealers who bet on McKinley's election are happy. W. W. Porter is $100 and several smaller sums ahead; A. N. Jones gets a new hat; J. B. Dearborn wins several $5 bets and Norman Carle gets a gold dollar for every state that McKinley carries.

Mr. Miller representing J. Friedman & Co., leaf dealers of Chicago, was in this city Wednesday. Mr. Miller is an ardent admirer of the president elect and was happy over election.

George H. Rumrill shipped two cars of old leaf from Evansville and two from this city during the week.

A. S. Flagg the popular Edgerton leaf dealer, was elected to the assembly by a very large plurality.

Local tobacco men wear a smile as pleasant as a June sunbeam on account of election.

Pure

Blood is essential to perfect health. This is a scientific fact. Every organ, nerve and muscle must be fed and nourished. It is the function of the blood to furnish this nourishment, and the quality of nourishment these organs receive depends on the quality of the blood. If the blood is

Rich

Pure and full of vitality it will properly feed and support the whole mechanism of the body. If it is poor and thin disease and suffering will be inevitable. The great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing stubborn cases of scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, neuralgia and many other similar troubles, is based upon its power to enrich and purify the Blood

This is also the reason for the great popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a building up medicine. By making pure, rich blood, it gives vigor and vitality even in trying seasons, when, owing to impoverished blood, thousands are complaining of weakness and weariness, lack of energy and ambition, and that tired feeling.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1492—Columbus explored the San Salvador river in Cuba.

1620—Battle of Prague in the Thirty Years' war.

1811—Battle of Tippecanoe; Joseph Hamilton Davis, a noted Kentuckian, killed in the action.

1847—Lotta (Charlotte Crabtree), the actress, born in New York city.

1861—Battle of Belmont, Mo., Grant's first important engagement with Confederates. Belmont was severely criticised as a useless battle. Grant defended it as necessary in order to protect a force of 3,000 Federals, under Colonel Oglesby, which had penetrated the interior of Missouri and were threatened by Confederates at Columbus, opposite Belmont. The troops engaged were chiefly Iowa and Illinois volunteers and had never before been under fire. After capturing the fort at Belmont and holding it for a few hours Grant was compelled to retreat or lose his entire command.

1865—Rear Admiral Robert Wilson Shufeldt U. S. N., died in Washington; born 1817.

WISCONSIN IS HONEST.

Wisconsin's sound money majority still rises. There never has been a flick on Wisconsin's financial reputation, and its lustre is greater than ever since the splendid showing of Tuesday. Such a reputation is worth millions, as the freedom with which capital has been advanced to develop Wisconsin's national resources shows.

A dollar invested in Wisconsin means a dollar—the same kind of a dollar—ready whenever payment is due. There were 100,000 people in the state who seemed to say by their votes that they wanted this change, but the great majority of them were not in earnest. They would have turned very abruptly had there been any fear of Bryan's victory.

MAKE IT A BIG ONE.

The sound money demonstration in honor of McKinley's election which will take place next week ought to be and undoubtedly will be the biggest affair ever known in this city. More was at stake in the canvass just ended than was involved in any previous election in a third of a century and the victory means more. The country's rescue from the riot and repudiation party warrants some spectacular recognition. Let the demonstration be memorable.

Henry M. Stanley, who has been strangely silent since he got a seat in the British parliament, has written a letter endorsing Lord Salisbury's attitude on the Venezuelan question. A gift for tawdry put money in his purse as a newspaper man and he doubtless thinks it ought to help him along politically.

The college football players may ease their minds; now that the more important business of electing a president has been attended to, the public will devote some of its attention to the chrysanthemum haired young men, who have been somewhat neglected of late.

The way those Illinois democrats who hailed Altgeld as the savior of his party two months ago, now try to bury him, is amusing. He can't be any deadlier than the whole silver democracy. What is the use of singling him out from all the rest for mortuary ceremonies?

Increased forces in the Janesville Machine Company's shops; a renewal of operations in the Berlin Machine Works. These are two of the fruits of McKinley's election. Does anybody know of a factory that Bryan's election would have started?

The Spanish government having succeeded in placing a loan of $80,000,000, General Weyler may feel justified in increasing his corps of typewriters, thus enabling him to circulate more claims of victories.

Why not take a little rest before starting upon the construction of the cabinet, and better yet why not leave the job to the President-elect?

Tassel Down Night Dresses

Probably as many colds and as much sickness results from improper clothing at night while sleeping as any other way. One sleeps much more comfortably in a tassel down night dress than in any other similar robe. It is far more easy to guard against and avoid colds than it is to cure them after once contracting. One of the best ways then to keep the health is by having proper sleeping garments. We are selling Amoskeag tassel down outing flannel night dresses for ladies at 94 cents each and for children at 71 cents each. They are made in the best possible way and are worth $1 easily. HIRAM A. STONE DIES AT THE CREAM CITY

FORMER JANESVILLE PIONEER IS NO MORE.

He Passed Away At the Home of His Son, Orange Williams, at Milwaukee Came to Wisconsin In An Early Day—Something of His Life.

The funeral of Hiram A. Stone, one of Wisconsin's best known pioneer citizens, and a former resident of this city, who died last Wednesday, was held Thursday at the residence of Orange Williams, 3412 Mt. Vernon avenue, Milwaukee, and the interment was held yesterday at Darien, Wis. The Rev. Mr. Williams of Chicago, conducted the services.

Mr. Stone was widely known throughout the state. He was born at Paquette, Vt., March 4, 1811, and last March celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday at the home of his son-in-law, Orange Williams. He received his only schooling at a country district school, and when sixteen years old began an apprenticeship at the hatter's trade. In 1833 he went to New York, which state at that time boasted of but sixteen miles of railroad. He was successively a railroad employe in the pioneer days of railroading and later on overseer on the Genesee Valley canal.

Came to Wisconsin In 1840.

In 1840 he removed to Wisconsin, journeying thence by lake from Buffalo, arriving in Milwaukee the morning of June 24, 1840. He went to Darien, Walworth county, taking up his residence on a farm near that village, where he resided until 1854, when he removed to Darien and engaged in the lumber business. In 1858 he was elected sheriff of Walworth county by a large republican majority, and served from 1859 to 1861. He returned to his home in Darien, where he remained in business two years, removing thence to Delavan, where in 1866 he was again elected sheriff, at which time his election was practically unanimous, his name appearing on both republican and democratic tickets.

After serving his term of office he removed to Janesville, where, in 1878, his wife, who had long been an invalid, died. Since that time he made his home with his son-in-law, Orange Williams, of Milwaukee, who resides at 3,412 Mt. Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Marie Schmah.

At the advanced age of eighty-eight years, Mrs. Marie Schmah died this morning at 5 o'clock at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. William Detmar, 305 Locust street. Mrs. Schmah is an old settler having come to this country in '48. One daughter, Mrs. Frank Krueger, of Marquette, Mich., is left to mourn her loss. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Funeral of Mrs. Berigan.

The funeral of Mrs. Marie Berigan was held this morning from St. Mary's church at 11 o'clock. Rev. R. J. Roche officiated and the pall bearers were John O'Malory, Patrick Joyce, Chris. White and Andrew Pierce.

than those to be found in the good clothes which bear our well known labels, and tailor's art was never shown to better advantage. These comfortable suits, these ready to get into suits, give you immediate satisfaction. There's nothing of the ready made look about them; they're not ready made clothes of the kind you may have in your mind. These rough fabrics for business use couldn't be made better by the tailor at twice the price. $15 $18 and $20 for over. Then look at the way they're made. All hand made too, trimmings that are good serges, and put in right; collars that are shaped right and fit up about the neck; shapely shoulders, properly fashioned about the front and in the back, to make the garment hang gracefully about the form. You needn't go to the tailor to get all these qualifications, for they're combined in all our good suits. We would like you to see just how good they are.

Appropriated Ten Gallons of Apple Juice, and Most Serve a Month's Time For the Crime—John Buchholz In Hard Luck—Some Other Court News.

Do not steal at all, but if you must steal, don't go to Clinton to do it. And if you should steal in Clinton, be sure you steal money, or something of that nature. But whatever you steal in Clinton, don't steal a jug of cider.

This is doubtless the advice that John Buchholz, of Clinton, would give you, if you called at the Rock county jail to consult with him.

Buchholz is a resident of Clinton, and the other day he strayed from the straight and narrow path that leads to joy, and got onto the wide, well paved highway that ends at the county jail.

At the point where these two roads "forked"—in Clinton—stood a large brown jug. In the jug was ten gallons of cider—two dollars' worth.

Buchholz took the jug—cider and all. Then the police took Buchholz, and a Clinton justice of the peace convicted him. A sentence of thirty days in jail was imposed, and that's why Buchholz is in jail.

Buchholz will serve a month for a theft of $2 worth of cider, while Frank McKee will serve the same length of time for stealing a $65 gold watch.

Say That Undue Influence Was Used Over Their Deceased Uncle, Dr. Galer, of Hampton, Iowa, and Apply to the Courts to Decide the Matter.

Because of the death of Dr. Joseph Galer, of Hampton, Iowa, four heirs in this city have begun suit in the Franklin county courts to get possession of an estate valued at $75,000.

The Janesville people interested in the case are all nephews and nieces of the deceased, they being Misses Clara, Mary, Cora and Charles Galer, who reside at 54 Center street.

Dr. Joseph Galer was one of the wealthiest and best known physicians in Franklin county, Iowa. On September 11, 11, 1895, he was taken ill and died, and upon his death bed he signed over all his property and money to his second wife, who survived him. It is claimed by the heirs, that Dr. Galer was not mentally qualified to execute a will at the time it was signed, and that undue influence was used over him. Attorney Hemmingsway, of Hampton, appears for the heirs.

PLAINT OF THE WILD ROSE.

In lonely spots all wild I grow,
Pale, though sun and rain caressed,
When soft one morn, as yet the dew
Sparkled on my snowy breast,
A poet came and pressed his lips—
Warm and red with life's young blood—
Upon my snow white roselike tips.
And, lo, there surged a crimson flood
Throughout my veins, which dried my breast
As never sun nor rain could do,
And soft each morn his fond lips pressed
My petals till I rosiest grew.
But woe is me! One luckless day
There passed a plowboy on his roan
Who plucked me in his sportive play
And claimed me for his own.
I faded in his ruthless grasp,
He cast me here alone to die.
Oh, love, once more to feel your clasp
And breathe a last goodbye!

THE HAUNTED SLOOP.

At one time, not so remote but that the memory of it still lives in the minds of some of the older river men of New York, there were a great many sloops engaged in trading on the Hudson river between New York and various points on the river, and among these was one that will probably be remembered long after the others are forgotten.

The Martin Wynkoop was designed to be one of the swiftest of the river fleet, and her builder put into her construction only the very best material that could be procured, while her designer, Captain Peter Van Corlear, had modeled her with such care that when she was finished she was indeed a thing of beauty, but the zeal of her commander was responsible for the tragedy which blighted the marriage of the Wynkoop to the Hudson and seemed to put an evil spell upon her which followed her throughout her brief career.

On the day set for the launching of the sloop the captain was here, there, everywhere, issuing orders and guarding against anything that might occur to mar the beauty of his beloved craft. He had kept her name a profound secret, intending to proclaim it as he left the stocks, and had provided a magnum of champagne with which to baptize her as she flew to the embrace of her bridegroom, but unfortunately for the captain fate had decided that he was not to carry out his plans, for by some mischance the sloop started from her resting place and slid into the water before the preparations were completed, seeming to choose a moment, too, when her noble commander was directly in the way, and to the horror of the bystanders he was caught between the vessel and the stocks and crushed to death. He was not instantly killed, but lived only long enough to whisper to his mate, "The sloop—Martin Wynkoop," thereby signifying his desire to have that name applied to her, and so she was duly christened.

Captain Morris Bleeker succeeded the ill fated Van Corlear and fitted the sloop out for her first voyage. When she was ready to sail, she was a craft that would have caught the eye of any seaman, for she was as buoyant as a cork and graceful as a swan upon the water. Her quarter deck, like the poop of a man-of-war, stood high above the main deck, and her immense main boom extended far and clear beyond her stern.

At last she was finished, and Captain Bleeker took in a cargo for Poughkeepsie, leaving New York in the afternoon and continuing under way till night, when he anchored behind Clermont point, not caring to cross the Tappan Zee that night.

About midnight the captain was aroused by the steady clank, clink, clank of the windlass, as if some one were getting the anchor. Angry and amazed at this apparent breach of discipline, he sprang from his bunk and ran on deck, to find the crew coming aft in a body.

"What is the meaning of this—mutiny?" he roared. And he backed up against the poop bulkhead, determined to fight to the last.

"No, sir," answered one of the men, his teeth chattering as he spoke, while his companions crowded about him, pale and silent. "It's ghosts!"

"Ghosts?" repeated the captain angrily. "What do you mean?"

"Why, sir, we heard the windlass goin like some un gettin the anchor, and when we run on deck to see what the matter was there was nobody there, and the windlass hadn't been touched."

The captain had recovered his wits by this time and saw that he must do something to quiet the frightened men.

"Is that all?" he said lightly. "Why, that was some vessel around the point heaving short, and the sound came across the water. It was not aboard of us. Go below and turn in, and I'll look out for the vessel." The men, seeing that the captain was not frightened, went below together, leaving him on deck alone. Scarcely had they got into the forecastle when there broke on their ears the sound of the chain rattling and snoring.

as it paid out through the hawse pipe, as if the whole cable were coming out of the chain locker.

Up started all hands again, and the captain ran swiftly forward to find that nothing had been disturbed and the vessel swung to her moorings just as she had when they anchored her. There was no more sleep for the crew of the Wynkoop that night, for no sooner did they leave the deck than the anchor was apparently either hove up or let go, and the noise only stopped when the first gray streaks of dawn appeared over the eastern shore. The men were in a state of excitement bordering on mutiny, but as they could not leave the vessel till she arrived in port they got the anchor and made sail.

That day will live in the memory of the unfortunate mariners on the Wynkoop as the stormiest of their lives. Three times did the captain attempt to weather the headland at the base of Hook mountain, only to be blown to leeward by the gale and swept around the foot of the cliff. The sloop acted as if she were possessed of some diabolical spirit, for when running along close hauled on a tack, with everything drawing as taut as a bowstring and the helm set on the weather side, she would suddenly as to throw everybody to the deck, and the man at the tiller several times narrowly escaped being brained by the heavy boom as it swept across the deck. At last they weathered the point, and from that time made good weather to Poughkeepsie, where the crew deserted to a man, all of them declaring that they would rather go to the penitentiary than to make another trip in such a craft.

Captain Bleeker managed to scrape together a scrub crew, with which he made the return trip to New York, making good time and having no trouble. On the next trip up he carried a crew of old river men, each of whom swore that he was "not afraid of the devil himself."

This voyage was a great deal worse than the last. All day did they tack and ratch about the point, losing on one tack all that they had gained on the previous one, until about dusk, when the wind increased to a gale and the captain, finding that he could not hope to weather the point that night, put her about and ran before the wind, intending to anchor behind the shelter of the hills till morning.

As she scudded along at a terrific rate, yawing and sheering as the seas caught her under the stern, the main boom suddenly gybed. The captain was at the tiller when this occurred, and as the boom swung across the deck a blight of the main sheet fell about his neck, and when the sheet tautened it cut the head off the unfortunate man and threw it far out of sight into the heaving waters of the river, while the crew stood pale and horror stricken at the gruesome sight. Almost instantly the gale moderated, and the sloop was sailed back to New York without further difficulty.

It was several months before a man could be found to take command of the haunted vessel, for in addition to the other tales that were circulated about her it was rumored that the headless ghost of Captain Bleeker could be seen every night standing on the quarter deck, grasping the tiller in his phantom hands.

At last a man came forward and offered to take the position, and though he was a stranger to everybody on the river his offer was accepted, for he seemed to understand his business thoroughly. This man called himself Rudolph Sturdevant. He was a tall, dark, mysterious sort of a person, with a saturnine cast of countenance, and was terribly profane in his speech. Indeed, his blasphemy shocked the wharf rats about the Washington market, and that was no easier task in those days than it is now. Captain Sturdevant brought his own crew with him, and it was well he did, for there was not a man in New York who would have shipped in the Wynkoop for love or money.

The day which Captain Sturdevant appointed to sail from New York was the 13th of September, and to make matters worse it was on Friday. It was one of those autumn days when the air seems full of vague threatenings, when the glass falls apace and the prudent mariner seeks a good harbor for his craft. The loungers about the wharf tried to dissuade the captain from his purpose, telling him of the experience of her former commander and urging as a reason, apart from other considerations, that it was Friday and the thirteenth of the month, which made it little less than suicide to leave port in such a vessel as the Wynkoop; but the captain laughed at their fears and swore with terrible, blood curdling oaths that he would put the sloop around the headland of Hook mountain that night or he would land her in hades. And so he started on his voyage.

Old river men say that never before within the memory of the oldest of them had such a fearful night visited the Hudson river as that memorable 13th of September. The upbound fleet anchored at nightfall behind the sheltering hills near Nyack, and the crews of the different vessels assembled on deck to watch the Wynkoop as she laboriously tacked and filled across the tempestuous Tappan Zee. Night came on, and still in the inky blackness she crept along amid the buffeting wind and waves. The thunder roared and reverberated among the hills and echoed and re-echoed from the sides of Anthony's Nose and Hook mountain and then went grumbling away across the lowlands on the other side of the river, while the vivid lightning ever and anon played about the toiling sloop as she moved wearily on. The night wore on, and the watchers grew weary at their posts, but still the flashes showed the Wynkoop now on port and now on starboard tack, yet never nearer the headland.

Just at midnight there came a flash of lightning which illuminated the heavens like the noonday sun, and at the same instant the thunder boomed as if the universe had split in twain. In that blinding flash of light they saw the Wynkoop standing out bold and clear against the dark background of the eastern shore, and outlined full to their gaze was the form of Captain Sturdevant standing on the quarter deck, his head thrown back and his clinched fist extended upward toward the sky as if he were defying the powers of heaven. The air seemed to glow with a bluish luminosity, and a strong odor of brimstone greeted the nostrils of the amazed watchers, while a wild and thrilling shriek came across the water, sounding loud and clear above the roar of the tempest.

When another flash of lightning came, the sloop had vanished, and never to this day has a vestige of either vessel or crew been seen.

No one knew where Captain Sturdevant and his crew came from, but it became a matter of grave discussion among the river men, the general opinion being that they were agents of the foul fiend.

It is currently believed on the river that on every 13th of September a ghostly craft enveloped in a mist of bluish flame may be seen beating across the foot of the cliff. The sloop acted as if she were possessed of some diabolical spirit, for when running along close hauled on a tack, with everything drawing as taut as a bowstring and the helm set on the weather side, she would suddenly as if the whole cable were coming out of the chain locker.

CANINE FRIEND IN NEED.

How the Greyhound Rescued the Little Spaniel.

"Talk about the sagacity of dogs," remarked Jenkins, as he scornfully surveyed the records of the good deeds done by canines in general, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "Why, I saw something the other day which beats the world—something which, in addition to proving the reasoning powers of dogs, showed also that some of them at least possess a great capacity for affection for their own kind. A friend of mine uptown owns several dogs, among the lot being a magnificent greyhound and a diminutive spaniel, the two dogs, notwithstanding the disparity in size, being warm friends. The other day the dog-catcher wagon was making the rounds and, as usual, missing the curs while corralling the animals which are well taken care of. It happened that my friend's front gate had been left open, and the two dogs mentioned escaped into the street just as the wagon turned the corner. There was a great cry on the part of the catchers, who grasped their nets and made a scramble for the little spaniel, not seeming to like the idea of tackling the big hound. The poor little spaniel realized her danger, and attempted to escape. She flew like one possessed in every direction, only to be headed off by the men with the nets and a score of small boys. She finally halted panting in the middle of the street, and one of the men approached her with his net. It seemed that the little thing's doom was sealed."

"Suddenly there was a fierce bark and the big greyhound came leaping into the crowd, scattering the small boys and compelling the catchers to take to the wagon. The hound reached the side of the spaniel and, taking in the situation, reached down, grasped his wee companion in his capacious mouth, and was off down the street like a shot. He didn't stop for the gate, but, with a great, graceful leap, was over the fence, and then, gently depositing the spaniel on the ground, stood wagging his tail, as if knowing that he had discomfited their enemies, while the spaniel gambled and made the welkin ring with her shrill barks. If that wasn't a great thing, I don't know."

A Crazy Romancer.

In a small town near this city lives a widower who was engaged to be married to a widow residing in St. Louis. They quarreled, and a few days ago the widow went to town where her elderly lover lived, ostensibly on business, but in reality to see him. Arriving there, she wandered around the streets, hoping to "accidentally" meet him. Failing in this, she went to a hotel and wrote a note, telling him she was there on business and would receive him if he cared to call. While searching for a messenger to deliver her note, she was arrested as an insane woman who had escaped from a St. Louis asylum and for whom the police were on the lookout. She was soon released, as a St. Louis doctor, who knew her, was in town, and explained matters to the police. Her widower, who is one of the town officials, was sent for and escorted her back to the city. She vows she will never again visit that town, although her arrest brought about the wished-for reconciliation, and the wedding will take place in a few weeks. This story is true in all its details, but on account of the prominence of the parties interested the names are withheld. The crazy woman is still at large.—St. Louis Republic.

POZZONI'S COMPLEXION POWDER gives fresher charms; to the old, renewed youth. Try it.

SEEMS as if all the things we like disagree with us, and all the things we don't like, agree with us. Dyspepsia lurks in most of the good things we eat, and indigestion follows the gratification of appetite. Of course, it isn't Nature's fault. Nature does the best she can, and if a man will only help her a little bit at the right time, he may eat what he likes and as much as he likes. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for people who are troubled with indigestion. Particularly for those in whom it manifests itself in the form of constipation. The "Pellets" are quick and easy in their action. They are in perfect harmony with Nature. They effect a permanent cure. You need take them regularly only a little while. After that, use them occasionally when you need them—when you have eaten something that disagrees with you. They may be taken just as freely as you would take water or any other necessity of life. Once used they are always in favor.

CAPES AND WRAPS.

The Farmer of Silk and Velvet—Jackets Very Popular.

Women who have invested in inexpensive capes are no doubt anxious to know whether capes are to be worn again this winter or set aside in favor of something more novel. There is no doubt, however, that they will be seen in numbers and will form part of the fashionable wardrobe, although jackets, sacks and long coats will share the honors. This affords a wide range of choice, and everybody can be suited.

Capes are of medium length and are of thick silk, velvet or cloth. Those of the TAILOR MADE GOWN.

Last mentioned material are not confined to the usual tones—black, navy blue, gray and mode tints—but are seen in very decided colors—violet, medium green, cardinal and clear blues. These capes, which are usually single, are adorned with wide galloon or braid carried all round in many bands, forming a waving, square or pointed design. The very high, pointed or round collar is lined with fur, or, if fur pelrine forms part of the cape, the collar is entirely of fur. The lining of the cape is of silk, or of fur different from that forming the decoration. Capes of heavy silk embroidered and beaded, or of broche or fancy woven silk, as well as figured velvet capes, require no further ornamentation except fur and fine buttons.

In addition to capes of the usual type there are others, having four or five superimposed capes over the arm, starting from the shoulder. The front is single and is adorned with galloon or braid, while there are two hollow plaits in the back. Galloon like that ornamenting the front borders the collar and the arm capelets. Narrow bands of fur sometimes replace the galloon.

Today's sketch illustrates a tailor made costume of blue and white checked cloth. The skirt is plain, except that the tablier is outlined with a heavy cord of blue and silver. The short, straight sack is laid in plaits in front and at the back and has revers of white silk. Blue and silver cord edges the sack, revers, collar and wrists, and there are four large buttons in front. The chemise is of blue silk.

DETAILS OF STYLE.

New Capes—Collarettes of Fur, Lace and Feathers.

There is a fancy for large, very pointed revers. They are seen on the fashionable bolero and also on capes when the latter have a vest effect in front, the revers of white satin or pompadour silk folding back on the black or dark green velvet forming the body of the cape.

The new cloth capes are a little longer than those lately worn, and are lavishly ornamented with soutache and galloon. The favorite lining for all capes is either quilted silk of a pale color or fur, the collar being lined with light velvet or entirely composed of curled black plumage. Black feathers and white lace are also very happily mixed, the white lace being usually, as a matter of fact, in imitation of the antique.

Collarettes of fur, mixed with white, coffee or yellow lace, are fashionable, and the same style is seen with feathers, usually black, instead of fur.

Pointed corsages are seen in some of the winter models, particularly for décolleté gowns. The belt, and especially the wide belt or corselet, is immensely fashionable, but the pointed bodice is permissible as a change, and should be adopted by stout women in preference to any kind of belt, as it decreases the apparent size of the figure and lengthens the waist, while any horizontal effect has just the opposite tendency. There is also a future prospect of square postillions, but this is not yet fully decided. Meanwhile there is quite enough to distract the attention in the corselts of various kinds, wide and narrow belts and pointed effects that are already in vogue.

The wattleau plait, infinitely varied by modern taste, has strong hold on the general fancy just now, and is seen on all sorts of garments, from the nightgown to the street sack.

The illustration given today shows a variation of the popular sack and is called the Muscovite. It is straight in front and double breasted, slightly curved in to the figure under the arms and straight again at the back. It is closed at the side by brandeburghs and olives of passementerie, and on the front, back and sides are large motifs of black mohair, galloon and braid. The same decoration is employed on the lower part of the sleeves. The immense, flaring collar is astrakhan. The velvet hat is trimmed with a band and bow of velvet and velvet flowers.
